

Yesterday was December 2, 2010, the day our class got to be the first kids to ever go into the Mississippi Children's Museum! We were all standing, about ready to tear off the paper that they covered the museum door with. When we got in the museum it was amazing!

The elevator wasn't an ordinary elevator. It was a rocket elevator! My favorite thing was the turtle holes because you could crawl through a bunch of dark tunnels. You can learn, paint, draw and play and have a great time! There is nothing dangerous and your kids will have a blast when they go the Mississippi Children's Museum. It is a great place!

I really would advise you to take your kids to the Mississippi Children's Museum.
